Responding to COVID-19

CMSM has compiled a number of resources that may be helpful as we continue to adapt to the ongoing pandemic. On March 20, 2020, a friar, Br. John-Sebastian Laird-Hammond, OFM, became the first person in Washington, DC, to die from COVID-19. He had underlying health conditions, but this is a sober reminder of the risk we are facing at this time.

Urbi et Orbi Blessing and Plenary Indulgence: Pope Francis will participate in a prayer service in front of St. Peter's Basilica this Friday, March 27, 6 p.m. Rome time (1 p.m. eastern and 10 a.m. Pacific) before offering a special Urbi et Orb blessing, with the possibility of obtaining a plenary indulgence:

- Watch the prayer service: Vatican YouTube channel (English; other languages are available).

Vatican Decree on Holy Week and Easter: Cardinal Robert Sarah released guidelines for the celebration of liturgy during this week. See the document text and Catholic News Service article. Of note: “Decisions regarding monasteries, seminaries and religious communities shall be made by the Diocesan Bishop.” In addition, the decree indicates there is to be no washing of the feet on Holy Thursday.

As provinces, monasteries, and local houses celebrate Holy Week and Easter, we recommending following the guidance put in place by the local diocesan bishop regarding worship restrictions and the civil authorities regarding public gatherings. Please also keep these in mind:

- Public liturgies generally are not possible, even during Holy Week and Easter. This means outside individuals generally should not attend, even if there is a physical separation between them and your community members.
- In light of the CDC and other guidance to practice “social distancing” and minimize contact that could lead to the spread of COVID-19, and given the number of high risk individuals in many communities (age or health concerns), provincials may wish to recommend your men observe celebrations within the houses where they live rather than gather from across the province at the provincial house or other location.

- Consider being creative about engaging with your own communities and with the faithful during this time. This may include using Zoom or other software to host a “virtual” gathering with your local communities on Good Friday or Easter; live-streaming Masses, stations of the cross, or other reflections; posting taped reflections online; offering outdoor “drive-through” confessions, as some priests have done or outdoor “drive-in” adoration, where the faithful remain in their automobiles. Also, don’t forget to provide a link for donations on your website and to mention how to give during the appropriate time in a live-streamed Mass.

Immigration

The Catholic Legal Immigration Network (CLINIC) has prepared a resource page with the latest updates on government agencies during this time.
Livestreaming Masses, Stations of the Cross, etc.

Many parishes and other ministries have jumped into livestreaming and posting reflections for the faithful. The simplest version is a message using your mobile phone – either live or posted online.

These practical resources will walk you step-by-step into online ministry.

The Catholic Apostolate Center has created a resource page, which religious institutes can use as they consider how best to support their ministries. Fr. Frank Donio, SAC, has offered the expertise of their team for members of CMSM who have questions about this.

NEW – an easy step-by-step guide from the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops

- Facebook Live (mobile phone and Facebook account needed): download this guide from the Diocese of St. Petersburg | watch this video
- YouTube (note: if you have fewer than 1,000 followers on your channel, you will need to use a webcam for live video): YouTube instructions
- Suggested equipment and resources from the Archdiocese of Washington

While shown live, these videos also can be archived so people can watch them afterward, and they can be embedded on your province website.

Just run a test first so you aren't surprised, as occurred here:

Communications Best Practices

Your communications director or coordinator may be interested in a free 3-session webinar series, March 25-27 (then on demand), from the Public Relations Society of America. While geared toward business, presenters will cover communications best practices during COVID-19 (internal, external, and digital).

For virtual conference calls and gatherings, consider Zoom (limited free option available), GoToMeeting, or Skype.

Managing Anxiety

Saint Luke Institute has released a free, 8-minute video on managing anxiety during coronavirus while Southdown has produced a list of top tips and resources.

Ministering with Young People
The National Federation for Catholic Youth Ministry has posted a full page of resources and ideas for those working with minors during the COVID-19 crisis.

Keeping Healthy

The Centers for Disease Control’s COVID-19 website has the latest information and guidance for the general population, faith communities, retirement centers, etc., in the United States, while the World Health Organization offers global guidance.

Finally, the Diocese of Dallas is offering a downloadable flyer for hand-washing “Catholic style” – in English, Spanish, and Vietnamese.
